Butchery Dick, 74906 Bad Rappenau-Grombach, Germany

Products: DOLOMIT

This down-to-earth business stands for craftsmanship with tradition, quality and innovation.

Especially with the quality, which is checked by an independent institute, there are no compromises.

A complete proof of the origin of the animals from the immediate region is important. Freshness and quality are guaranteed by stress-free slaughtering and fast on sale.

In production of meat and sausages only first-class fine ingredients and spices are used, so you can say in good conscience of "delicatessen quality" of the products. Many awards in quality competitions have already been awarded to this model company.

Water plays an important role, as it does in many factories and in butchers' shops. If only hard water is available, often disruptive deposits on or in the machines, boilers and sprayers are the result.

During a presentation in the butchers' professional association, Mr. Dick became aware of the EWO products. Since limescale occurred repeatedly in his company, it was decided to install EWO DOLOMIT in the drinking water supply.

After several months of using this technology, Mr. Dick says:

"My expectations were exceeded, me and my employees are thrilled with the effect of the EWO device used. The formerly tenacious calcifications are now less and easy to remove without much effort.

Since we are completely convinced, we have had EWO installed in our private house. I can recommend this innovative technology in good conscience."
